There are 3 Steps to the SBI method.

S: When speaking with your employee or employees, you'll want to begin by describing the situation - tell what event, date, or timeframe you are referencing.

B: Next, share the behavior that you observed - be sure to be specific and non-judgemental.

I: Finally, Describe the impact of the behavior - either on you or on the business.

	From there, you can discuss and further clarify the feedback and begin to work toward finding a solution.
Slide 6  Speech bubbles are layered and animated to go along with each step. See slide deck for clarification.	Let's take a look at a possible workplace scenario. In this business, the manager noticed that some incoming phone calls are going unanswered. Here's how the manager might use the SBI method: (New narrator/voice) Last week, each day during our first few hours of business... I noticed that some phone lines were ringing and never getting answered. This made me concerned that we might not be meeting the needs of our patients who may be trying to make appointments. You can imagine that the conversation may continue into a discussion of why calls may be going unanswered when the office is busy. Maybe this office is short staffed. Maybe some instruction on using a multi-line phone system is needed. Whatever the case may be, SBI really opens the door to working towards a solution.
Slide 7	So, let's recap: To use the SBI method for delivering feedback to your employees, begin by describing the situation, then share the behavior you noticed, and finally share
